

International remittances provide a lifeline during the pandemic

The continued functioning of the international payments network has provided a financial and literal lifeline for people and their families

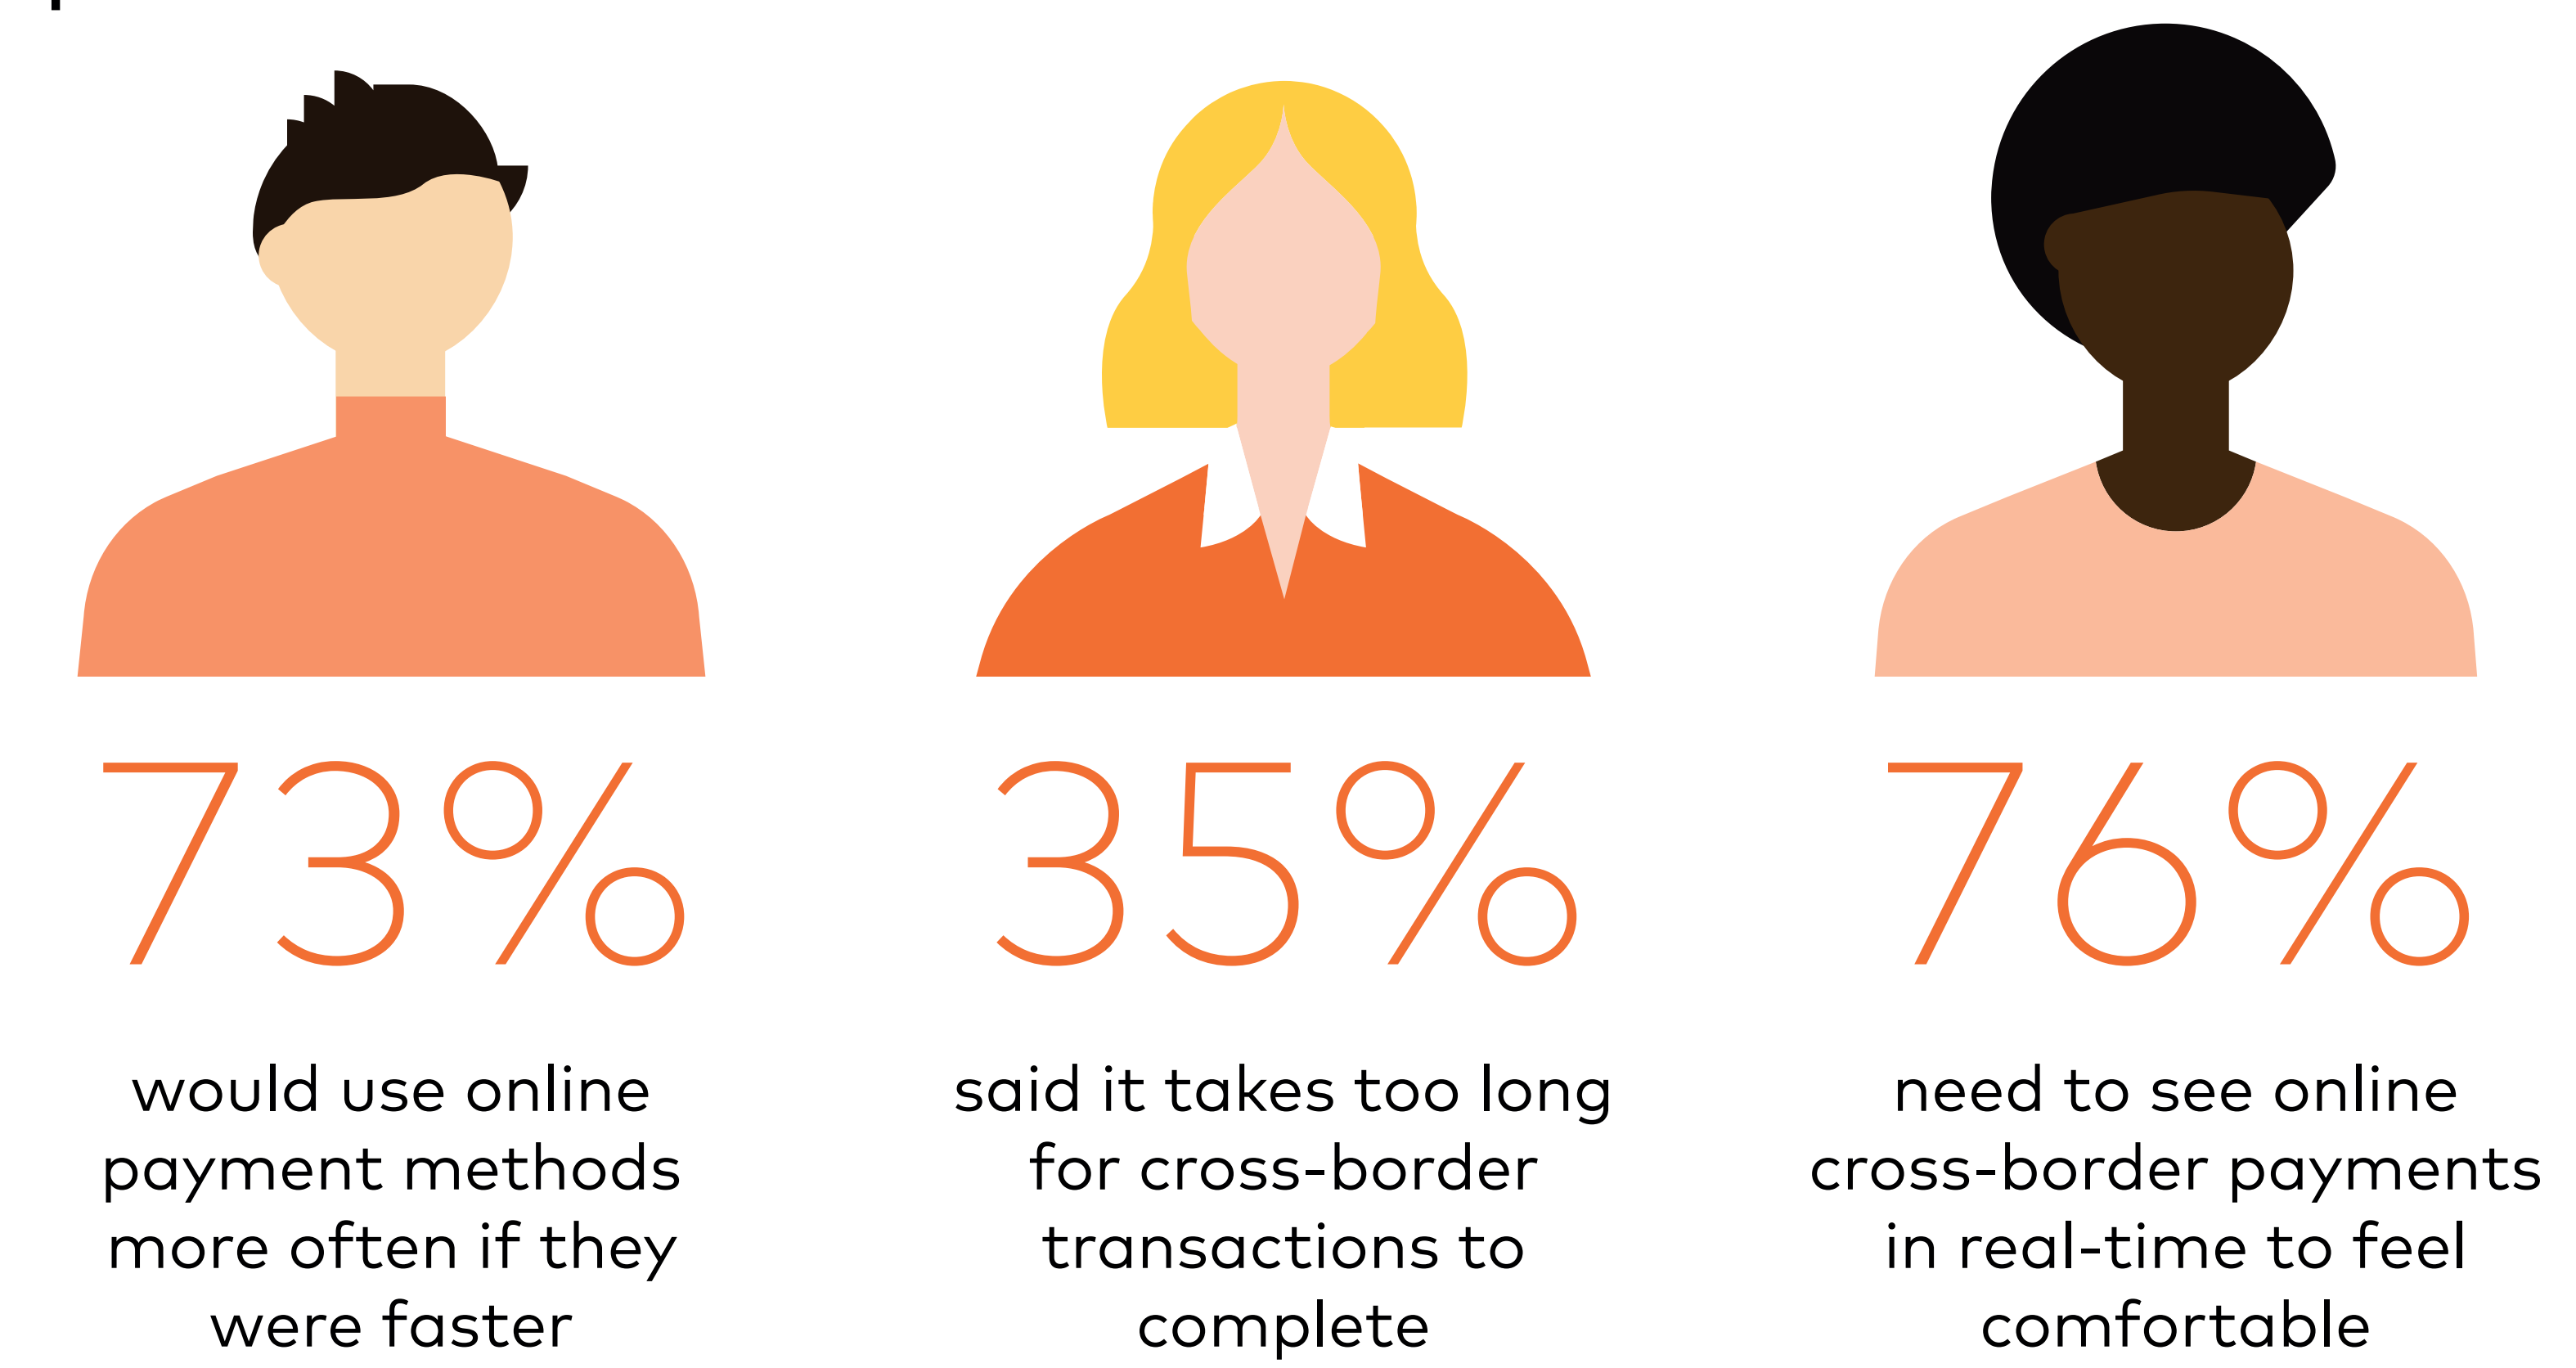

The continued functioning of the international payments network has kept vital funds flowing while borders have been closed

There is room for improvement yet — and an opportunity for cross-border payment service providers to meet people's needs for speed, security and certainty

Speed

Security

Certainty

For more information, please visit crossborder.mastercard.com/borderlesspayments

Source: Mastercard research with 5058 consumers in 10 markets, November–December 2020.

Cross-Border Services may be provided by Mastercard Transaction Services Corp. or through its subsidiaries and affiliates. In some jurisdictions services may be provided by subsidiaries or affiliates that hold licenses to engage in money transmission. For a list of those jurisdictions, see crossborder.mastercard.com/licenses. Terms and conditions apply. Services are subject to availability and certain restrictions and Mastercard reserves the right to change, from time to time, in Mastercard's sole discretion, the design, operation and functionalities of, and services comprising, the Cross-Border Services. Alternate designs, operations and functionalities of, and services comprising, Cross-Border Services may be available, from time to time, to participants on separate terms and outside of what is represented here. The availability, operations and functionalities of, and services comprising, Cross-Border Services may vary by location. Mastercard makes no representations as to any aspect of the service provided by third parties.